STILL HANGS FIRE

The Viaduct Matter Apparently Has Made No Progress.

The third conference between the city officials and representatives of the Santa Fe Railway company, the Missouri Pacific and the Topeka Street Railway company, which was to have been held Monday, did not take place, and the sixth street viaduct matter is again delayed. Possibly a conference will be held within a week. As the result of a conference the city started proceedings to secure the construction of a new viaduct, from the viewpoint of the railroads the matter is just in the initiative period.

City officials insist that progress with the railroad companies is being made and that it is their expectation that a new viaduct will be built costing between $50,000 and $70,000. The length of the viaduct will be 1,350 feet.

It is the intention of W. G. Tandy, city commissioner of streets, to have a new bridge over the Shunganunga creek, just east of the Sixth street viaduct, built at the same time work is done on the viaduct, and thus avoid the inconvenience of a second closing of the street while work is being done.

If this bridge is built next year, there will be no new bridge over Shunganunga creek on Topeka avenue until later. Mr. Tandy says the Topeka avenue bridge is good for several years yet, while the Sixth street bridge, which was damaged by high water last summer, is in a dangerous condition.

Plans for local memorial services in memory of Booker T. Washington will be made tonight when members of the local chapter of the Colored Business Men's League meet at the Colored Y. M. C. A. hall. A week of prayer is being held at all Y. M. C. A.'s over the world this week. Special notice is given to gymnasium classes under the auspices of the association and at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday there will be a short prayer service preceding the Bible class taught by Miss Marguerite Dice.

The noon meeting Friday will be addressed by Mrs. A. D. Gray. In view of war conditions the meetings this week are of especial importance.

SHE FOUND A FRIEND

Hungry and a Stranger She Was Fed and Clothed.

Miss Effie Loder, who is parole officer of the Girls' Industrial school, was in Topeka for a few days, recently and tells a pathetic little story of one of the girls of the school. The young girl, some 15 or 16 years of age, had been paroled, and Miss Loder was taking her to a home she had found for her. They stopped in a little town on the way, where they had to wait for trains. To help pass the time of waiting, Miss Loder took the girl to a picture show, and about the town to all the show places the burg afforded. Still there was time to spare, and as they sat in the station, the little girl began to cry. The officer gave her what consolation she could. The child asked for a Bible and Miss Loder found one in her suit case, which she handed to her. After a long search, the child handed it back, saying that she couldn't find the place she wanted.

"If you will tell me what you are hunting," Miss Loder said, "I will try to find it for you."

"I want the story about the person who was hungry and a stranger and was fed and clothed and sheltered," the reference was quickly found and afforded an astonishing amount of comfort to the little girl, whose child experience had been of a rough and stormy kind, for the most part unfurnished with the "odor of sanctity."

Cleveland School Heads Can't Join
Federation of Labor.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Cleveland school teachers today lost their fight for reinstatement of six officers of their union, who had been discharged by Supt. J. M. P. Frederick on the ground of alleged contempt of court in discharging the teachers.

The court allowed to stand the court of appeals' decision which held Frederick was justified in his action. Nearly two years ago 1,850 Cleveland school teachers organized the Grade Teachers' club and took steps to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. The board of education then adopted a resolution requiring the immediate dismissal of any teacher joining the federation. The case has been fought through Ohio courts twice.

DEATH MAY BE RESULT

Returned Convict Dangerously Ill
From Exposure on Trip.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 16.—The life term of Glenn Davis, a convict who escaped from the state prison Friday, and who, with a companion, was captured yesterday, may end quicker than Davis expected. The prisoner today is in the prison hospital in a dangerous condition from pneumonia developed through exposure and lack of food.

The convicts were scantily clad when they made their daring escape through the prison roof. After gaining their freedom, they made their way to the Missouri river, near the prison, and started across a stream in a boat. A board was used for a paddle. The boat drifted against a sandbar and was wrecked. The convicts were compelled to get out in the cold water to free it.

Warden Coddling said today officers from the prison believed they were on the trail of William La Trasse, train robber and leader of the escaping men. La Trasse, Frank Miller, No. 4 and Roy Benson still are at large.

DOOMED TO DIE

Kansas Corporations to the Number of 138 Are Tagged.

Marked for the Services of the Executioner.

FAILED TO PAY THEIR TAXES

Will Not Be Allowed to Exist
Longer in Kansas.

State Charter Board to Take
Final Action Wednesday.

Bang! Out goes the light for 133 perfectly good profit sharing corporations. All because they have not paid their corporation tax under the state law.

Sometime Wednesday the state charter board will hold an inquest over the remains of the 133 concerns and will decide that their death was due to contributory negligence. Then an order will go to the clerks in the office of J. T. Eakin, secretary of state, and the 133 corporations will be wiped off the books.

On the books in the secretary of state's office are the names of several thousand corporations. Some of them work for profit, whether they get it or not. Others were organized for charitable and benevolent purposes and have nothing but the love of humanity in their hearts. They will be left alone. No one—not even a state charter board—can disturb a benevolent or charitable concern. But the 133 delinquent profit seeking corporations have slept on their rights and are due to die.

A list of delinquent Kansas corporations was compiled today by W. P. Montgomery, assistant attorney general, and this list will go to the state charter board Wednesday morning. The list comprises the Kansas corporations which have failed to make payment under the corporation tax law. So, under a provision in the state law, they will be wiped from the books.

New System at Work.
Under the old system followed by the charter board, corporations were wiped from the books when they failed to make reports as required by law. Now they are not only compelled to make sworn statements, but they are compelled to pay an annual tax, based on their capital stock, surplus and profits. There are just 124 companies which have this year failed to observe the provisions of the 1913 statutes.

For several months Montgomery has industriously tried to convince the corporations that they should meet the annual tax and continue in business. As a result of his efforts, he has collected $125,000. In addition to these payments, Montgomery now has claims aggregating $5,500 tied up in the courts. An additional $20,000 is also tied up in protest fees—money paid to the state under protest and held in a special fund pending final decision on the constitutionality of the Kansas act. The case involving this $20,000 is now before the supreme court of the United States.

But the 138 corporations are not concerned in these matters. They have failed to answer the letters from the attorney general's office. They have failed to make payment under the law. Now they must go.

Some of these corporations, it is believed, will doubtless come back seeking new charters. But before they are granted, it is probable that the state board will insist upon the payment of the fees which were not paid during the time the companies were actively engaged in business.
